Catholic Q&A

Note: What follows is the second Q&A I ever wrote for this column (with a few minor corrections). It touches on a central theme during the season of Lent: the afflictions of Christ and how we are called to embrace this suffering.

What does Paul mean when he says that he “completes what is lacking in Christ’s afflictions” (Col 1:24-25)? I thought Jesus’ work on the Cross was perfect! What could anyone do that Jesus has not already done for us?

This is a very good question, and I think, one of the great mysteries of Scripture. What you have to ask yourself is this: What could still be lacking in the sufferings of Christ? He suffered to the fullest extent, and for all mankind. When He died and rose from the dead, he defeated sin and death and won for us all the grace we need to be saved. This victory is called the “objective redemption,” and the quality or completeness of it is without question.

But, there is still something lacking. What is still required is the application of the grace of the Cross upon us. He won all the grace through his perfect suffering, but this grace must still be applied to us.

This application of grace is called the “subjective redemption.” Any time we celebrate any of the sacraments, the grace of the Cross is applied to us and we experience this redemption. We know that this application is necessary because if it wasn’t, then everyone would have been instantly saved as soon as Jesus said, “It is finished.” But, we’re not.

So, we have thus far established what is lacking. The grace of the Cross must still be applied to us. Now, Paul tells us in the passage you are quoting that one way to make up for what is lacking (to apply the grace of the Cross to men) is by taking up our Cross just as Jesus Christ took up His. Suffering for the sake of the Body is meritorious. It is a good deed that is rewarded by grace, and all such deeds serve to build up the Body of Christ.

This explains why Paul would rejoice in his sufferings, and see this as something that he did for the sake of the Church (cf. Col 1:24). He knows that when he suffers for the Gospel, to fulfill the duties of the “divine office” given to him (cf. Col 1:25), he builds up the Body of Christ and becomes a minister of the grace that flows from the Cross. Elsewhere, Paul said, “Therefore I endure everything for the sake of the elect, that they also may obtain salvation in Christ Jesus with its eternal glory” (2 Tim 2:10). He is a steward of God’s grace for the benefit of others (cf. Eph 3:2).

What bit of sacrifice or suffering can you offer up for those who need it? In this season of Lent, may we all follow Paul’s example, embracing the suffering of the Cross and building each other up as we walk along the way that leads to Easter.

Peace of Christ to you,
Nicholas Hardesty, Director of Religious Education

Children's Notes to God

Dear GOD: If You watch me in church on Sunday, I'll show You my new shoes

Dear GOD: In school they told us what You do. Who does it when You are on vacation?

Dear GOD: Are You really invisible or is it just a trick?

Dear GOD: Is it true my father won't get in Heaven if he uses his bowling words in the house?

Dear GOD: Did You mean for the giraffe to look like that or was it an accident?

Dear GOD: I think about You sometimes even when I'm not praying.

"The Light Is On for You"

Forming Good Stewards Sunday Collections

And Jesus said, "Amen, I say to you, no prophet is accepted in his own native place."

If we become a star athlete or acquire great wealth our high school or home town may honor us as "Person of the Year" or dedicate a plaque to us. But if we challenge people to do great things, there may be no plaque for us. Jesus entered the synagogue in his home town of Nazareth and read a passage from Isaiah that prophesied the coming of the Messiah and then He said it had been fulfilled in their midst. The people of Nazareth knew Jesus well. He grew up and lived among them. He was one of them. He was like them. He had not yet done anything to indicate that He was the Messiah. But the people knew the Messiah would do great things. If Jesus was the Messiah, there was no reason why they, too, could not do great things. If Jesus could not prove to them that He was the Messiah, there would be no pressure on them to be better than they wanted to be. Jesus knew that familiarity breeds doubt. He challenged the people of Nazareth to accept Him despite their doubt - to have faith in Him. Do we sometimes doubt Jesus? Do we accept Him as Messiah despite our doubt? Do we have faith in Him?
